Girls Who Venture is a wonderful non-profit. The training given is very educational to the girls and women. It is giving enough knowledge in entrepreneurship and therefore more women will to into business. I have learned how to invest into other businesses and how negotiate good deals while I venture.

Girls Who Venture is doing a lot of work to increase the visibility of women entrepreneurship and the venture capital environment in several countries around the world. The research that the organization is engaged in can be instrumental to identifying entrepreneurship education gaps across these countries. Raising awareness about such education gaps for girls is crucial to drawing resources towards this cause, and improving women and girls' access to education and training for women entrepreneurship. I cannot wait to see the impact that Girls Who Venture will have on young girls and entrepreneurship as it scales up!

Girls Who Venture featured in Belize Latin America was very successful. We had 24 girls participating in GWV Club and program and we have five girls showcase their business ideas at Pitch Night!

Many people have had so many challenges when it comes to maintaining their income level. This program has not only helped the young and ambitious girls with knowledge and skills but also the courage to take up opportunities around them. The program should proceed.
